Class time: M 2:30-5:30
Office hours: Wed. 1.00-3.00 pm and by appointment

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course will provide a survey of major periods and movements of Russo-Soviet culture from the late 18th c. to the present.

ATTENDANCE

Students are expected to attend all classes. More than two unexcused absences will affect the final grade. More than three will result in failure, regardless of the student's prior standing. Excused absences, such as illness or death in the immediate family, must be documented. Absent students are responsible for acquiring relevant class notes and handouts from fellow students. Work assigned in a student's absence is not to be given a later deadline without prior agreement with the instructor.

EVALUATION

Participants are graded on the basis of seminar contribution (50%) and written work (50%), which may include quizzes or in-class writing assignments, given without notice.

Writing assignments. Each Sunday by 6.00 pm each student will electronically submit to condee@pitt.edu a one-page, single-spaced essay with appropriate citational apparatus. You must submit a minimum of ten such essays over the term (four "reprieves"). You may not submit essays retroactively or cluster them at the end of term: in other words, if you have not submitted your first essay by Sunday, 11 October, you will not have sufficient time to submit ten weekly essays. Unfulfilled assignments receive a failing grade. The essays address three questions:

1. What are the major arguments of the secondary readings?
2. How do the secondary readings so far (by implication) connect retroactively with the larger inquiry of the course (periodization and cultural movements)?
3. How do the primary texts support or undercut the arguments of the secondary texts?

INTEGRITY POLICY

Students are responsible for familiarizing themselves thoroughly with the university policy of academic integrity and for adhering to it. The rules are posted on the University's Academic Integrity Policies site (Policy 02-03-02, <http://www.bc.pitt.edu/policies/policy/02/02-03-02.html>). Academic dishonesty will result in course failure.

COURSE METHODOLOGY

DISABILITY POLICY

If a student has a disability that requires special teaching, testing accommodations, or other classroom modifications, he or she is encouraged to notify the instructor and Disability Resources and Services, 140 William Pitt Union, 412-648-7890 or 412-383-7355 (TTY) as early as possible in the term. DRS will verify your disability and determine reasonable accommodations for this course.
